Me, too

by sanwamchester

   Me, too

"I love you."

Hiccup blinked. "Wh... what?"

"I said... I love you."

His mind was racing. _He loves me? This must be a cruel joke._
"You... what?"

Jack sighed in frustration. "I love you, dumb shit." He smiled, that perfect smile that Hiccup could never get over. _God, he's incredible._ "I think you're perfect. You are perfect."

Hiccup felt his face get hot. "But- but I-" He didn't know what to say. _Do I say I love him? I do, I love him, but what if he really is joking? Why would anyone joke about that?_ Suddenly, Jack frowned, his face turning red.

"I- I understand. It's- I'm going too fast, I'm sorry..." He looked away, his hand on the back of his neck. "I-I can leave, if you want-"

"No!" Hiccup grabbed his hand. "No, don't leave. I-" He took a deep breath. "I... I love you, too."

His grin put the sun to shame. "You do?"

"Yeah, I... I think I do." Soon, Hiccup was smiling, too. "I do. I love you."

His smile somehow brightened, and suddenly he spun Hiccup around in a hug. "He loves me! You love me!" He put the boy down, holding his hands. Hiccup lifted them up, crossing between them and going on his tiptoes to plant a kiss on Jack's lips.

"I love you."

"I love you, too."

End
file.